No wonder this butter tastes so wonderful!! Also, this may be a coincidence (not a big enough sample size yet to know for sure), but the days I've eaten that butter, I've felt notably better (morning sickness-wise) than days I haven't eaten it.

Anyway, it's good to have more data showing how practices good for animals (except perhaps foie gras ducks) are also good for our health.. HHHhhmmm pate! Sounds like a great source of K2 (and A, E and D) sounds I feel like Hannibal.. This is great! Don't forget the other fat soluble vit -- E and the mixed tocotrenols. "A recent study examined the relationship between K2 (MK-4) consumption and heart attack risk in 4,600 Dutch men..
"Stephan, specifying MK-4 is an oversimplification of the study:Now I'm not bringing this up to be critical but rather with the hope that it will energize your talents to research and enlighten us on the entire class of Menaquinones (not just MK-4) and what their specific values are in our health.. Most synthetic vitamins and hormones are toxic in fact 'People at risk for developing vitamin K deficiency include those with chronic malnutrition (including those with alcohol dependency) or conditions that limit absorption of dietary vitamins such as biliary obstruction, celiac disease or sprue, ulcerative colitis, regional enteritis, cystic fibrosis, short bowel syndrome, or intestinal resection (particularly of the terminal ileum, where fat-soluble vitamins are absorbed).. In addition, some drugs may reduce vitamin K levels by altering liver function or by killing intestinal flora (normal intestinal bacteria) that make vitamin K (for example, antibiotics, salicylates, anti-seizure medications, and some sulfa drugs)..
"Sorry, replace "45 mg" with "5 mg" in that last paragraph You have a stronger palate than I! Although I do like sea urchin.
